

National League Rugby launch new review show for 2021/22

For Immediate Release

National League Rugby have today launched The National League Rugby Review Show which will cover every round of action across our three divisions - National One, National Two North and National Two South.

In conjunction with our recent name change, the review show marks a new era for levels three and four as we look to expand our coverage even further. Rugby is returning and things are happening in our divisions, so get on board!

We will bring you the most comprehensive coverage of National One and National Two by analysing three key games with highlights, rounding up the headlines around the leagues and summarising the results.

The National League Rugby Review Show will be hosted by respected commentator Warren Muggleton and he will be assisted by Talking Rugby Union, who continue to lead the way when it comes to covering the National Leagues. Warren will travel to grounds throughout the season to host the show and commentate on a key game. He will be joined by guests each week to dissect the action from across the leagues.

National League Rugby Chairman, John Inverdale

"This is a marvellous way for rugby at our level to promote itself to the widest possible audience. For the price of a couple of beers, everyone can have a full season's supply of National League Rugby every week and the great thing is all the clubs will benefit financially too.

"It's a huge opportunity for self-help. The more people who subscribe, the more the word will get out about rugby at our level and the more money clubs make, the more people will consider coming to watch your club!

"I'd encourage everyone involved at all our member clubs to do all they can to encourage as many people as possible to subscribe."

We are looking forward to the first kick of a rugby ball in the 2021/22 season and providing THE place to watch the best tries and big moments from the weekend's action while investing back into your club!
